

CSWE III MELTON CAMPUS

MELTON THROUGH OUR EYES . . .

A sunflower unfolding still innocent, like sleeping babies.
Galahs, cockatoos, doves and kites Pobble-bonks in Toolern Creek cotton wool clouds in blue, blue sky gardens like florist shops silent nights buses aplenty, but when connecting you board a turtle to catch a horse!
Clean suit-empty—pocket population like popping corn fast food galore, balloon people waddling new almond eyes, corn row hair and an odd red neck here and there an orchid in the bush.
