

Is

Jennifer Rayner

Like a red-haired Roman baby left exposed to the cold air grasping.

Like a fisherman picking through the tangles
of a tsunami tide receding.

Like a soldier twisting gripped by aches
from a stomach wound pulsating.

Because before there wasn't you
and now there is.