

Frost

Maree Collie

She could see a neat row of footsteps pressed into the frost.
They ran from the fence to the bottom of her window, directly beneath where she stood.
She could not see anyone around, couldn't see where they had gone.
Doesn't matter, all the doors and windows are bolted.
Then she felt a cold hand on her shoulder.